

Festival Of Allies To Have 19 Nations Represented In It

BOOTH representing the 19 allies of the United States in the world war, all decorated in native furnishings, with pretty young girls wearing the garb of these lands, seated in the interior, will be one of the features of the "Festival of the Allies" to be held here October 7 to 10, if the suggestion of Mrs. Frank Coles, made at the meeting of the Red Cross, under whose auspices the festival will be given, is adopted. At the meeting Wednesday afternoon at the chamber of commerce of the general committee of the Red Cross, of which Charles N. Bassett is chairman, tentative plans for the festival were discussed at length. Mrs. Coles made the above suggestion which was thought to be one that should be adopted, and would undoubtedly prove one of the most interesting attractions of the fest.

The meeting was attended by about 40 El Paso women and was presided over by Mrs. Bassett, who outlined the plan for the celebration. He said the meeting was called to appoint the chairman of various committees and to discuss various entertainments to be held in connection with the festival.

Dr. W. L. Brown, who was present, said that it was the idea of the Red Cross that the fest should not be termed a carnival, but would be called the "Festival of the Allies." He said these behind the movement believed that with a proper emphasis about ending over a period of four days, a large sum could be derived for the Red Cross society. Various forms of attractions were discussed during the past several days by members of the society. Dr. Brown said, among which would be a pageant procession, an Valeta Indian feature, dancing, negro minstrel, merry-go-round, dog show and other novel features.

Mrs. Bassett said that if it were possible to secure permission from the city and at the same time do no damage to the property, the festival would be held at Cleveland square. J. W. Fisher said he thought the fest could be held off during the festival and that attractions which might damage the lawn, could be arranged on the streets.

Mr. Bassett said he had been informed by army officers that they would cooperate and would detail men to help erect the tents and do other work.

Mrs. B. F. Jenkins announced that the refreshment committee of the Red Cross would like very much to have the sandwich and coffee stand. Mr. Bassett said that he would appoint her in charge of this booth.

Miss Grace Hawkings Hostess To Girl Friends At Valley Home

MOST informal was the delightful impromptu afternoon given at her home, down the valley, by Miss Grace Hawkings, on Wednesday, when a most attractive set of the young hostess' friends motored out to tea. They took their work along—everybody tends strictly to her own knitting. These times of peace and sociability with conversation as they filed their needles. All the more enjoyable are these little intimate gatherings, because it will be but a few days until many have taken their departure for their various schools. Miss Hawkings is leaving by the end of the month for Baltimore, Md., to attendoucher college. Among those who were present were Miss Helen Priest, of Oakland, Cal.; Miss Genevieve Russell, Miss Mary Simpson Grogan, Miss
